

Brad Kreuger | Architectural Designer

After growing up in St. Louis, Missouri, Brad attended the University of Kansas School of Architecture where he found a meaningful connection to studying the everyday human experience of design. He has participated in urban design proposals, passive systems studies, and achieved an award for design-build work with a studio. Brad applies his explorative nature beyond architecture by operating a clothing company, and practicing skills like ceramics, woodworking, and motorcycle mechanics.

After graduation in 2020, he moved to Denver and started his career at OSA. Brad has worked on a handful of projects from office and multi-family to historic adaptation and civic redevelopment proposals.
