

Jon Bassett Architect

Since childhood, Jon has had a lifelong passion for Architecture. Since then, his interest in design has taken him all over the globe. While in school, Jon had the opportunity to spend five months studying Architecture and History abroad in Europe. Jonathan is especially interested in the detail and materiality aspects of design, as well as how architecture can be informed by structure, function, and the vernacular. How Architecture influences and interacts with the surrounding built-environment also intrigues him. Jon finds inspiration in all forms of design. Having recently recieved his architectural license, he looks forward to continuing his education through collaboration and immersement into the Architecture profession.
