

Kenna Winther | Designer

Kenna recently graduated with a Bachelor's degree from Iowa State University's 5-year accredited Architecture program. During school, she explored topics such as climate issues and pollution, sensitive landscapes, reclaimed materials, versatile structures, mental health, food security and resiliency, the meaning and acts of community, and much more. Throughout this researched, she discovered a passion for community building through the built-environment, as well as the role architecture plays in social and environmental justice.

Kenna is eager to explore and grow in the professional field of Architecture and design, and work toward her next goal of obtaining her architectural license.
